Club as a whole. The number of places available varies annually and is dependent on the number of returning players and training space available.

CUBaC Development Squad Membership

Anyone eligible to compete for Cambridge University in BUCS is eligible for the Development Squad.

To compete for Cambridge University in BUCS a player must be a current student of the University. Please see the BUCS website: BUCS REG 4 Individual Eligibility

Additionally, to compete in M1 or W1 where Half Blues are awarded, the Blues Committee rules must be followed, which specify that a player must be a member of a College, along with further restrictions: Blues Committees | Sport at Cambridge

SELECTION CRITERIA

CUBaC Main Squad Membership

The selection committee for male players is composed of the Men's Co-Captains only. The selection committee for female players is composed of the Women's Co-Captains only. The Captains are elected at the previous year's AGM, partly on the basis of their suitability for this selection role. They may seek advice from coaches, fellow players or other Committee members, but their decision is final, and may only be challenged through the complaints process detailed in the Constitution.

Returning players who were selected for the previous year's Varsity Match are automatically invited to rejoin the Main Squad without trial. This is because the selection process for the Varsity Match takes place over many weeks and is highly rigorous, and is therefore more reliable than a single weekend of trials. Experience shows that these players never find themselves at the bottom of the Main Squad in terms of standard.

Selection for all other players is made on the basis of performance at trials only. The Captains will endeavour to match each trialist with a player of roughly their standard, in order to evaluate their best performance in both singles and doubles. Please note that a high number of trialists and limited time and space resources do limit the amount of attention that can be given to each trialist. Attention will be focused on those near the border between Main and Development Squads, and between Development Squad and rejection.

Consideration will be given to any extenuating circumstances, eg. injuries, which may affect performance on the day of trials.

CUBaC Development Squad Membership

The selection committee for the Development Squad is composed of the Development Squad Leader(s). They are likely to seek advice from the Men's and Women's Co-Captains at trials.

Selection for the Development Squad may be based on performance at trials. Alternatively, the Development Squad Leader may invite players to join based on performance in the College league, or reliable recommendation.

BUCS League, South Cambs League, and Varsity

Selection for these competitions will be made on the basis of fitness to play, performance, and dedication at training, with consideration given to the specific objectives of each competition as detailed above. In order to pursue the ideal of a data-driven approach to selection, captains will endeavour to record the scores of as many training matches as possible.

INFORMING PLAYERS

CUBaC Main & Development Squad Membership

Players will be informed by the Captains or the Development Squad Leader(s) whether they have been selected. Due to the high numbers of trialists, it is not usually possible to provide feedback on trialists' performance.

BUCS & South Cambs League

Players will be informed by a Captain through one of our communication channels if they have been selected for a match.

Varsity & Mixed Varsity

All players will be informed by email of the player listing for the Varsity match.

All selected athletes are asked to bear in mind other athletes have not been selected for this event and recognise the impact this may have on them.

APPEALS PROCESS

Players wishing to appeal against the selection committee should follow the complaints process outlined in the club constitution.
